Article from the Lay Director

As I begin to serve my time as the GAE4DG Lay Director, I write this article thinking of all the servants that have come before me in serving the Austin Emmaus Community. These servants have done a mighty work as disciples in building Christ's kingdom on Earth by their demonstration of love, caring and service. Not only are they leaders in their churches, they have shown obedience to Christ in helping to encourage discipleship among fellow believers.

If you are reading this, you have probably been on a Walk to Emmaus and you have served Christ through Emmaus in a variety of ways. Perhaps you have served on the Board of Directors, on Servant or Conference room teams, by praying for the teams and pilgrims, by sponsorship; and perhaps you have provided agape and supplies. For all of you we are indebted, encouraged and strengthened; and we serve by standing on your shoulders.

The Walk to Emmaus is but one way that Christ uses to build disciples. But from my experience, the Walk to Emmaus routinely transforms lives of pilgrims and turns them on fire for the Lord. That is why I serve Christ through Emmaus.

In the Gospel of Matthew, Christ gives his Great Commission to the 11 disciples:

"All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit and teaching them to obey everything I have commanded you. And surely I am with you always, to the very end of the age."

This is what Emmaus is about: BUILDING DISCIPLES. What a wonderful and important calling. See you on the Walk!

Changing Course -- Love Can Soften Calcified Heart

"Do not ask the Lord to guide your footsteps, if you are not willing to move your feet." (Anonymous).

Jonah probably had many attributes, but an eagerness to listen to the Lord was not among them. He was in love with his own beliefs and opinions. When God first commanded Jonah to go to Nineveh, a city pregnant with evil, and declare that godlessness would only lead to destruction, Jonah went in the opposite direction. He jumped in a boat and sailed away from God. He didn't want the people in Nineveh to be saved.

The second time God ordered Jonah to go to Nineveh, he went. But when the wicked urbanites of that city suddenly started to believe in God, Jonah was miffed. Actually he was furious -- less at them than at God.

God had decided to call off the fire and brimstone, elected instead to rain down mercy. God had changed God's mind about a promised wrath. This was too much for Jonah. The whole idea of divine mercy disgusted him. Never mind that he was the recipient of mercy several times himself. He couldn't stomach God showing more flexibility of heart than he had ever demonstrated himself.

Somewhere along the way we Christians picked up the notion that to change one's mind is a spiritual weakness. Why change a perspective when you have everything figured out? We equate the constancy of God with divine inflexibility. Yet throughout the Old Testament, God appears ready and willing to change God's mind, and there is one reason -- love. Love has a way of breaking the chains of dogged certainty. If God is love, it stands to reason that God has the privilege of changing God's mind, especially when mercy is at stake.

It takes humility to re-examine old assumptions and to be open to new possibilities. On the best days, it will open up whole new worlds of love.

Anne Rioux next presented the Treasurer's report. The beginning balance on March 1 was $3,388.60 and the ending balance on March 31 was $5,246.45. This change primarily reflected deposits of fees for the men's Walk 1659 that is to take place May 3-6, 2012. Gary Johnson moved that we accept the report as presented and Myles McKemie seconded. The report was approved by the Board.

Sandy Brooks next discussed the issue of email and personal information of pilgrims and team members that are shared on Walks. Currently there is a personal information sheet provided on a CD Rom included in the closing packets. We can asked that names and email addresses be used only for Emmaus purposes, but we cannot prevent other use.
